

Opening Your Gifts: Opening Your Vision

Your most precious Gift is your own uniqueness, the Divine Spark of Life that animates your human suit like none other ever before or after you. I am here to remind you how beautiful and powerful you are, and to joyfully assist and support you in unfolding your unique beauty and power, for I know perfectly well that you feel you cannot do it alone. And you are right in this, just as you are never alone. I am with you always, known by many names, some you may recognize and some unfamiliar. I am beyond your comprehension and yet I am you, within you as well. Consider me Muse, Spirit Guide, Inner Child, Wise One or any other who loves you beyond reason and till the end of time. Let's journey together just for a moment, to share a vision of your unfolding gifts.

We begin our journey in a time and place in history that is seething with both the choking grip of cruel regimes of brutal control gasping their last foul curses, and the shining emergence of promising possibilities and renewed hope and dedication breathing new life into ancient wisdom and brand new creations alike, blending the two into one, into many, into the infinite potential that is unleashed with surrender to our true nature that is peaceful power, that is loving strength, that is evolutionary healing.

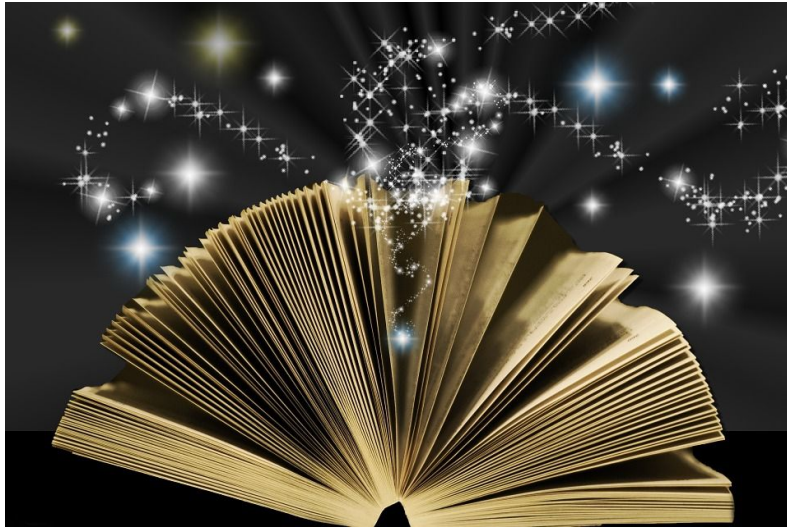

As with any magical journey, this one also travels within, for in truth, the inner landscape reflects the outer and the other way round. I will show you a vision of the landscape within you that knows only the path forward to your greatest success and fulfillment. This landscape leads to a grotto, an enchanted cave of meditation and transformation where you can glimpse the vision I see growing within you...

I have seen you in those silver shining moments when you are most fully yourself, most deeply engaged, most joyfully present, free from doubt and shame. What I am seeing there is not a mere flicker of greatness but the real portrait of your soul, merely glimpsed in this world as tiny treasures you mete out from your great abundant cache, wishing to spare mere mortals from the blinding glory of your true self. You may think I'm exaggerating, but I hope I'm getting the point across that you are a Gift to the world, with many Gifts within you waiting to be opened and shared with the world.

Think back to moments that felt as I have described, when you were totally yourself, and yet perhaps it felt like you more than yourself, as though there is a force, an energy that flows through you when you are completely open to it. This is a state of grace, and you can learn to cultivate this experience more often and more skilfully. Whether you feel it's Divine Presence or your Higher Self, this is your birthright, and our educational systems have simply been lax in helping you to bring it forth in your own individual way. This is because they are teaching the Old Story, where we only needed to learn in our brains, to emulate computers and robots, to follow rules, directions and lines, and to fear the consequences of both failure and success.

There is a New Story now being written by all those whose eyes are opening and minds are seeing just what humans are capable of creating through our Higher Intelligence. We need not fear becoming egotistical because our power is dedicated to serving the greatest good. We need not hide behind modesty for we must find courage to believe in ourselves as well as others if we are to transform the broken and outdated systems of the past into compost that graciously feeds the young ideas and ancient wisdom traditions alike. Writing and living this New Story will take all we've got, until we realize that our supply of energy is naturally renewable and intuition and integration are so much more efficient than intellect and brute force alone.

The New Story is being told all around us all the time, perhaps falling from your own lips when you least expect it, popping up to surprise you in synchronicities and blessings, opportunities that call to you as well as challenges that change your course when that serves your greatest good or give you chances to perfect a new holistic skill set. When you adjust your inner vision to discovering this emerging culture of honor, caring, creativity, empowerment and celebration, you will see evidence of this reality appearing more frequently and feel its power resonating more and more deeply within you.

I know that you, like every other Divine being in a human suit, have many Gifts of Higher and Deeper Intelligence that are emerging spontaneously and that can be trained and nurtured just like any other talents. Some of us are better at one thing or another, as with art or athletics or engineering. These Gifts can include those subjects and many others you won't learn in school from compassion to healing to meditation to building stone walls and timber frame homes, inventing machines and processes that help both people and the Earth, raising children to be fully activated spiritual beings, creating community networks that ensure all members are cared for, crafting works of art that illuminate the way forward.

In fact, it is already happening now! Many people live in a more magical world than you would suppose from observing some mainstream media (which I recommend limiting severely). From Permaculture teachers to healers and artists, dowsers and intuitives, spiritual explorers and protectors of the sacred Earth, organic farmers and community organizers, even lawyers and politicians fighting for those whose voices need desperately to be heard - there is another community among us. Are you a part of it? You are! If you wish to be, you are welcome. We know you, we love you, we are glad you're home. We're all in this together, even if it's pretty clear that some of us don't know that, and the rest of us forget sometimes. It's okay, we're here for each other in many ways, and learning more all the time.
